Excerpt: .of the disease in the North, better results are attained than by improper treatment in the South. Therefore sanatoriums for consumptives have been erected in the Northern states as well as in the Southern. If a tuberculous patient wishes to be cured in his own home, in the circle of his family, great care and precaution is necessary lest his own people will become infected with the same malady. Before all, the patient must have his own room which must be airy and light. A dark room is often a dirty room and this is 21 great obstacle to recovery. A sunny room with large windows towards east and south is the best, even more necessary than light is an abundance of fresh air. Means must be secured for cross-ventilation, the patient must have his own bed and linen, all his laundry must be separately washed. Utensils, spoons, cups, brushes, soap, handkerchiefs, clothes, etc., used by the patient, should not be used by the other members of the family. The greatest care must be taken that the expectoration of the patient be perfectly destroyed. The patient should not kiss anyone, talk or cough into anyone's face and not shake hands. He should be under medical supervision and have skillful attendance. If these principles cannot be carried out at home, the patient should be sent to a sanatorium. Treatment in a sanatorium is in most cases preferable to home treatment;-it is safer for the...
