Excerpt: . . . and will swear to it now, That its nothing but shrinkage that causes the trouble. Now, the up-to-date molder, whether younger or older, Who is sure a bad casting he never has made, Puts little reliance in the fragments of science Possessed by that chump in the chemical trade. At his mixtures they sneer, the components so queer, A conglomeration which takes no small fixing; He must be quite crazed to mix mottled with glazed And expect sound castings to be made from the mixing. It seems very strange when the irons he will change--Those with great reputation he leaves out, it is said--As they charge for the brand which is stamped in the sand Before the pig iron is run into the bed. All his ideas are wrong, they are not worth a song. When large castings are wasters and small work is bad; For they say the scabbed metal, which the chippers cant fettle, Is caused by the chap who is running the lab. His talk about carbon is nothing but jargon; His notion of phosphorus is much of the same; His silicons all rot, and they dont care a jot For manganese and sulphur will finish his game. He can spoil any brand that is made in the land By putting some steel scrap into the mix; Though the test hars are strong, somethings sure to go wrong Which will put the old man in a terrible fix. There is...
