Army Research Institute for the Behavioral and Social Sciences, 2002 OCLC Number: (OCOLOC)318201653 Excerpt: . . . Objectives This study provides a review of the effects of the new operational pattern on how Army ground maneuver units train throughout their contingency operations participation. It also examines how leaders and training resource managers can better manage, and conduct and support unit, staff, leader and individual training throughout the contingency support timeframe. The study goals are as follows: To assist commanders and staff officers in the development of unit training strategies as they prepare for, participate in, or return from contingency operations. To assist training resource managers in their efforts to better support the training strategies developed by units preparing for, participating in, or returning from contingency operations activities. In support of these two goals, the study has three objectives: To identify training needs and available training support resources for units preparing for, participating in, or returning from contingency operations. To develop an improved unit training model, including recommended plans and procedures for units preparing for, participating in, or returning from contingency operations. To design and develop notional training templates for units preparing for, participating in, or returning from contingency operations. Process The study was accomplished with input from middle-level (O-5 LTC equivalent) management representatives from the Department of the Army, several Army major commands and agencies including Forces Command (FORSCOM), the 7th Army Training Command (ATC) United States Army Europe (USAREUR), TRADOC, U. S. 18th Airborne Corps, U. S. III Corps, U. S. V Corps and ATSC. The breadth and depth of experience among these persons was essential to ensure consideration of...
